September 22: Some Luck by Jane Smiley

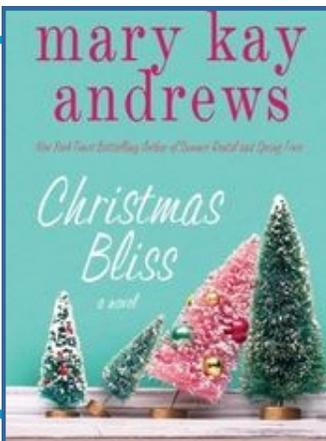

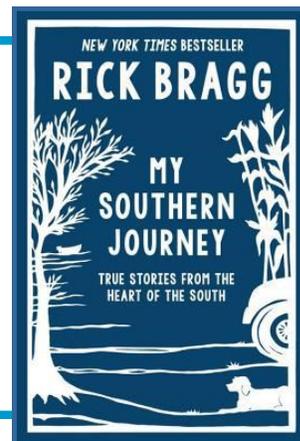

Historical Domestic Fiction

On their farm in Denby, Iowa, Rosanna and Walter Langdon abide by time-honored values that they pass on to their five wildly different yet equally remarkable children: Frank, the brilliant, stubborn first-born; Joe, whose love of animals makes him the natural heir to his family's land; Lillian, an angelic child who enters a fairy-tale marriage with a man only she will fully know; Henry, the bookworm who's not afraid to be different; and Claire, who earns the highest place in her father's heart.

October 27: My Southern Journey by Rick Bragg

Literature; Southern Essays

A poignant and wryly funny collection of essays on life in the south. Keenly observed and written with insightful and deadpan sense of humor, Bragg explores enduring Southern truths about home, place, spirit, table, and the regions' varied geographies, including his native Alabama, Cajun country, and the Gulf Coast. Everything is explored, from regional obsessions from college football and fishing, to mayonnaise and spoonbread, to the simple beauty of a fish on the hook.

November 17: Christmas Bliss by Mary Kay Andrews

Christmas Romance Fiction

Christmas is coming, but Savannah antiques dealer Weezie Foley is doubly distracted - both by her upcoming wedding to her longtime love, chef Daniel Stipanek, and also by the fact that her best friend and maid of honor BeBe Loudermilk is due to give birth any day and is still adamantly refusing to marry her live-in love Harry.
